HOW MEZCAL IS MADE?

The process begins by growing an agave plant which can take anywhere between 7 and 30 years.

Once harvested, the piña (body of the agave) is then slow roasted in stone pit for 4 days in order to bring out its natural sugars.

When sufficient time has passed, traditionally the roasted piña is crushed by horse drawn stone tahona. The milled piña is then mixed with water and allowed to ferment for 4 to 14 days before being distilled.

The final part of the process relies on a worker dubbed 'The Drunk' to sample the mezcal before its bottled.
